- b) shares of collective investment enterprises. These are financial instruments issued by collective investment schemes representing the rights of the holders over the assets of the collective investment schemes.
- c) options, futures, swaps, forward contracts with a fixed interest rate and other derivative contracts relating to securities, currencies, interest rates or yields, or other derivative instruments, financial indexes or indicators, whereby the contracted obligations can be satisfied by delivery or cash payment;
- d) options, futures, swaps, forward contracts with a fixed interest rate and other derivative contracts relating to commodities that must be settled in cash or the related obligations that can be settled in cash at the request of one of the parties (except for the event of default or other grounds for termination of the contract);

- g) derivative financial instruments for the transfer of credit risk;
- h) contracts for differences;

i) options, futures, swaps, forward contracts with a fixed interest rate and any other derivative contracts relating to climatic variables, freight rates, allowances for emissions trading, inflation rates or other official economic statistics indicators, whereby the contracted obligations have to be settled by cash payment or when these obligations can be settled in cash at the request of one of the parties (except for the cases of breach of the contract or other grounds for termination of the contract), as well as any other derivative contracts associated to assets, rights, obligations, indexes and measures not otherwise mentioned in this article, which have the characteristics of other derivative financial instruments depending on whether they are traded on a regulated market, are subject to clearing and settlement through recognized clearing houses or are used as collateral to margin purchases and short sales, as well as the derivative contracts pursuant to Art. 38, paragraph 3 of Regulation (EC) No. 1287/2006 of the Commission.

2.1. The option under letters "c" - "i" is a derivative financial instrument which incorporates the right to buy or sell a specified number of securities or other financial instruments at a fixed price within a certain period or on a specified date.

2.2. The futures under letters "c" - "i" are a derivative financial instrument which incorporates the right and obligation to purchase or sell a specified number of securities or other financial instruments at a fixed price on a specified date.

2.3. The contracts for difference under letters "c" - "i" are a derivative financial instrument which represents the right to receive or the obligation to pay the difference between the market value of a specified number of securities or other financial instruments and the price fixed in the contract.

Art. 26. (1) By virtue of these General Terms and Conditions, the client is informed that investing in the financial instruments under the preceding article poses risks. The higher the demand for returns, the higher the risk, including the risk of losing the entire investment.

(2) Each of the instruments listed in Art. 25 is associated with a risk to a greater or lesser extent. For all instruments there is a market risk – the possibility of losses incurred due to changes in the price of the financial instrument and/or the interest rate, exchange rate and other factors determining the value of financial instruments, as well as a liquidity risk – the possibility that the investor does not have enough money to meet their liabilities when they are due and the inability to liquidate assets at an appropriate price and within a reasonable timeframe. For each of the instruments, there may occur a system risk – the risk for a participant in the settlement to fail to meet their obligations and cause other participants to fail to meet their obligations on time. For the instruments denominated in foreign currencies there is a currency risk – the risk of a change in the value of the currency and the deterioration of the exchange rate regime in a given country. Moreover, each instrument has its own specific risks. Shares pose a risk of future price falls, the risk that the instruments purchased may not be entirely or partially transformed into cash, the risk of not receiving a liquidation share at the possible liquidation of the company; a risk for the company to be stricken off as a public company or for the investor to miss a tender offer if they do not follow the market. Government securities generally pose very low risk, but may suffer from the deterioration of the macroeconomic situation in the country, which may prevent them from meeting obligations under the issued debt securities. In the case of bonds, the risk is associated with the structure and financial conditions of the bond issuer; the more these indicators deteriorate, the higher the risk to the bond. The risk for shares in collective investment schemes is associated with the risk profile of the collective investment schemes, with poor investment management and all other risks typical for instruments in which the scheme has invested money. With options, the buyer runs the risk of losing the premium paid if they do not exercise the option, and the risk for the seller is unlimited. In the case of derivative instruments – options, futures, forward contracts, swaps, there is a basic risk – the risk of fluctuations in the base, since their value depends on the value and dynamics of the underlying asset. On the other hand, leverage can multiply losses because even small changes in the market price can lead to large variations in the price of the instrument, leading to the risk of losing the entire investment. Moreover, instruments are at a risk of the counterparty's default or insolvency. There is a risk for investors in the fact that as a result of transactions in financial instruments investors can take financial and other additional obligations, including contingent liabilities, additional to the cost for the instrument's acquisition. In margin trading, there is a risk related to the possibility to trade with funds exceeding the amounts deposited, as the margin requirements for the deposited amount vary depending on the regulated market where financial instruments are traded, on the respective instrument's risk category, on the liquidity, particularly as contracts for differences can significantly increase the leverage effect (explained above) to levels about 10 times the available funds, leading to a risk for the investor to not only lose their investment but also incur additional contingent liabilities.

Art. 27. Under these General Terms and Conditions, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall notify its clients about the possibility to be defined as professional, retail, or eligible counterparty upon their own initiative or upon the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's initiative.

Art. 28. The conditions and criteria under which a client is defined as professional or retail shall be the criteria established in the application of Art. 36 of LMFI and the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's policy for identifying clients as professional/retail. Thus, under these General Terms and Conditions, the policy applied by the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY and the criteria and conditions laid down in LMFI for the identification of clients as professional/retail:

1. professional clients in all investment services, activities and financial instruments are those that meet the criteria and conditions set out in items 1-4 of the first section of the appendix to Art. 36 of LMFI, respectively the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's policy.

2. clients who have requested to be considered professional – these are clients falling outside the scope of the first section of the application of Art. 36 of LMFI who meet the identification criteria in Section II, item 1 of the application of Art. 36 of LMFI and the procedure set out in section second, item 2 of the application of Art. 36 of LMFI, respectively the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY policy.

3. a retail client is a client who does not meet the conditions and criteria set out in items 1 and 2.

Art. 29. Under these General Terms and Conditions, an acceptable counterparty shall be a person who is included in the group of persons specifically listed in the legal definition of "acceptable counterparty" set out in Para. 1, item 29 of the Additional Provisions of LMFI and has expressly requested to be treated as such.

Art. 30. (1) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the clients shall be expressly informed about their right to request to be classified differently, including the right of the professional client under Art. 28, item 1 of these General Terms and Conditions to require a change in the terms of the contract in order to achieve a higher level of protection provided upon their request and judgement that they cannot properly assess and manage the risks associated with investing in financial instruments. The higher level of protection under the preceding sentence means the client will not be considered professional for the purposes of the regime applicable to the activities of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY and is provided on the basis of a written agreement pursuant to Art. 36, Para. 4 of LMFI.

(2) Under these General Terms and Conditions, a client who requests to be treated in a different way shall be notified that the extent of their protection shall be limited, particularly regarding certain cases, obligations, and requirements for the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY incl. the provision of information: Art. 5, Para. 1, item 1; Art. 8, Para. 1 and 2; Art. 9, Para. 3; Art. 10, Para. 4; Art. 10, Para. 6; Art. 22, Para. 4; Art. 30, Para. 1, sentence two; Art. 32, Para. 5; Art. 45, Para. 1; Art. 45, Para. 10; Art. 46, Para. 2 and 3; Art. 47, Art. 53 of Ordinance No. 38, which provide a high level of protection, apply only to retail clients, and Art. 19, Para. 2 and 3; Art. 45, Para. 5; Art. 20, Para. 2; Art. 8, Para. 3 of Ordinance No. 38 concerning the professional clients also contain restrictions on the level of protection, i.e. the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall not be required to provide professional clients with this higher level of protection specific to retail clients. The limited degree of protection for professional clients is related to the fact that they are excluded from the investors' protection system, about which the clients are informed in Art. 17 of these General Terms and Conditions, whereby they are explicitly excluded from the scope of the persons under Art. 77, Para. 2 of LPOS.

(3) The clients of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY defined as professional under Art. 28, item 2 of the General Terms and Conditions shall be informed that they are required to notify the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY about any change in the data used as the basis for their determination as professional clients.

(4) If in the course of the activity of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY it is established that a client defined as a professional pursuant to Art. 28, item 2 of these General Terms and Conditions no longer meets the conditions set out in LMFI and the policy of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY for determining clients as professional on their request under which the respective client has been classified as professional, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall take the necessary measures to provide a higher degree of protection for the respective client.

Art. 31. (1) Clients shall be informed that when the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY performs investment services under Art. 5, Para. 2, items 1, 2 and 3 of LMFI, it may enter into transactions with eligible counterparties without being obliged to comply with the requirements of Art. 27, Para. 4 and 7, Art. 28, 30 and Art. 33, Para. 2 of LMFI regarding specific transactions or the relevant auxiliary service directly related to those transactions.

(2) Every person designated as an eligible counterparty in accordance with regulatory requirements may expressly request not to be considered as such completely or just for a particular transaction.

(3) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY, upon its own initiative or upon a client's request, may:

1. define as professional or retail a client who would have otherwise been defined as an eligible counterparty under Para. 1, item 29 of LMFI;
2. define as retail a client who is considered professional under Art. 28, item 1 of these General Terms and Conditions.

(4) Where a person defined as an eligible counterparty requests not to be treated as such and the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY agrees, that person shall be treated as a professional client unless they specifically request to be treated as a retail client.

(5) When an eligible counterparty expressly requests to be treated as a retail client, Art. 36, Para. 2-5 of LMFI shall apply accordingly.

Art. 32. (1) The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall provide to its retail clients and potential retail clients the following information about costs and transaction fees, where applicable:

1. The total price to be paid by the client in connection with the financial instrument or the investment or auxiliary service, including all fees, commissions, fees and expenses, as well as all taxes paid by the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY, and if the exact price cannot be determined, the base for its calculation shall be specified in a way that the client can verify and confirm it; the commissions of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall be specified separately for each case. The information under the first sentence contained in the Terms and Commissions Table of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY for its standard commission on various types of contracts with clients, and the type and amount of client expenses (fees due depending on the place of execution – regulated market, multilateral trading trade system etc., charges for settlement to a depository institution) if they are not included in the fee, as well as for a particular order that is executed as a result of a contract with the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY, or the periodic reports on portfolio management respectively.
2. When a part of the total price under item 1 is to be paid in a foreign currency or the equivalent of that currency, the exchange rate and cost distribution shall be specified;
3. By virtue of the present General Terms and Conditions, the client shall be notified that the dividend tax is deducted at source. The client shall be notified about possible other costs, including taxes, related to transactions in financial instruments or investment services, which are not paid or imposed by the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY.
4. The obligation under the preceding items shall not apply for shares of collective investment schemes, of which the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY provides to the client information contained in the prospectus, as per Art. 69 of Directive 2009/65/EC.

(2) According to the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's rules and methods of payment set out in this article and paragraph of the General Terms and Conditions, the client shall be informed that:

1. The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY requires the client who places an order for the purchase of financial instruments to provide the funds necessary for the payment of the transaction – subject to payment upon placing the order, unless the client certifies that they will fulfil their payment obligation, and in other cases provided for in an ordinance.

2. If the rules for the place of performance at which the transaction may be concluded allow the payment for financial instruments to happen at a time different from the time of the transfer, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY is allowed to not require payment from the buyer, as long as the seller has given their explicit written consent. This provision shall also apply for other transfers of financial instruments

3. The payment method may be a cash deposit with the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY, under the requirements of the Law on the Restriction of Cash Payments, or a bank transfer, whereby the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall strictly observe the rules for keeping clients' funds as set out in Art. 12 of these General Terms and Conditions, as well as the provisions of Ordinance No. 38.

Art. 33. (1) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the retail clients or potential retail clients of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall be informed that the funds and/or financial instruments provided to the intermediary may only be kept in the places and by the persons listed in section five of these General Terms and Conditions. The client shall be notified that in case of bankruptcy of the person under Art. 34, Para. 3, item 2 or 3 of LMFI, when their money is kept in a joint account, it may suffer damages due to the fact that the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY does not provide protected deposit guarantee. Under these General Terms and Conditions, it is the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's responsibility to keep the deposited money and/or financial instruments acquired and the results of executed transactions with due diligence in compliance with the legal requirements and these terms and conditions. In view of the specific role of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY on the capital market, it shall bear administrative and penal liability, according to the effective legislation, in case of violation of obligations established by the law.

(2) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall inform its retail clients or potential retail clients about the possibility of their financial instruments being kept in a joint account with those of a third party, if the national legislation provides for such a possibility. The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall inform its retail clients or potential retail clients about the cases in which the national legislation does not allow clients' financial instruments held by a third party to be separated from the financial instruments of this third party or of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY. The risks to clients arising from the circumstances under the previous sentences are related to the possibility of this person falling into bankruptcy or insolvency, and in the cases under sentence two a risk arises that the third party becomes liable before its creditors (if any) also with the clients' financial instruments.

(3) The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall explicitly inform the client or potential client in the cases when accounts in which the cash and financial instruments are kept are or will be subject to regulation by the law of a country which is not a Member State. In this case, the client's rights relating to financial instruments or cash in the first sentence may vary due to the applicability of the law of a third country.

Art. 34. (1) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall explicitly inform the client about:

1. the existence of a collateral or right of retention on clients' funds or financial assets for the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY.

The conditions in which there arises or may arise a right to compensation as per the legislative requirements are as follows: the client's failing to act threatens the satisfaction of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY in its capacity as creditor, unless this concerns a right whose exercising depends on the client's personal discretion in their capacity as debtor.

The conditions in which there arises or may arise a right to retention are as follows: the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY has against its client in their capacity as creditor a due payment from the same legal relation that makes their debt payable, and in this case the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY may refuse to fulfil its obligation unless the client fulfils theirs. Another case in which a right to retention arises or may arise is when the payment due to the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY by the client is related to the retention or maintenance of their property or damages incurred by it, and this debt to the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY is pursuant from the same legal relation from which the debt originates, and the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY controls the client's property and acts in good will, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall have the right to retain the property until the debt is settled. However, according to the legislative requirements, no retention shall be permitted if the client provides due collateral.

Exercising the right of retention under these General Conditions does not include the sale or fulfilment of clients' assets that are subject to retention.

2. the existence of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's right to set off clients' funds or securities.

- The conditions under which a write of set-off arises or may arise and under which it is permissible under the law are: available subject identity (the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY and the client owe each other considerations), availability of the identity of the considerations (monetary debt or similar and interchangeable goods), and the receiving is liquid and due. In this case, each of the subjects may set off their receivable with their debt.
- Under these General Conditions, the client shall be considered explicitly informed that the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY has or may have a right of set-off regarding clients' financial instruments or monies on the part of the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY, and the conditions in which this right arises are described in the preceding sub-item of item 2.

3. the possibility that a depository institution may have a collateral right or a right of retention or set-off to a client's financial instruments or cash, wherever applicable.

(2) Before executing a transaction to fund the securities subject to financial instruments held on behalf of a non-professional client, or before using in any other way these financial instruments on its own account or on the account of another client, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall provide to the retail client, on durable medium and in a reasonable period before the use of financial instruments, clear, complete and accurate information about the duties and responsibilities of the INVESTMENT

INTERMEDIARY in connection with the use of financial instruments, including the conditions for their return and the associated risks.

Art. 52. The client shall be entitled to receive all the profit, in case the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY has concluded and executed a transaction on behalf of a client on terms more favourable than those established by the client.

(3) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the client shall be informed that the methods used to assess and compare the financial instruments in the portfolio are:

Section XII SPECIFICS IN CARRYING OUT ACTIVITIES VIA THE ELECTRONIC TRADING PLATFORM

Art. 61. (1) The company shall enable its clients to trade contracts for differences, incl. currency and derivatives with underlying commodities, stocks and indexes using electronic trading platform (system).

(2) Access to the electronic trading platform shall be provided via the following websites: www.trader.bg, www.trading212.com, and www.iTrend.com.

(3) In the course of activity through an electronic trading platform under the previous paragraphs, rules, information, rights and obligations of the parties set out in the present section shall apply in addition to the rules, information, rights and obligations of the parties set out in the previous sections.

Art. 62 (1) In order to trade on the platform and use its features, it is necessary to conclude a contract pursuant to Art. 35 of the General Terms and Conditions of Avus Capital Ltd. By concluding the contract, the client shall receive a username and password (or just password in the case of www.iTrend.com) to enable them access the electronic platform (system) under the present section.

(2) The client may not transfer the money to the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's accounts before the conditions in the preceding paragraph are met.

(3) Under this section, all the information that the intermediary is required to provide in the course of execution of a contract with a client pursuant to these General Terms and Conditions and Ordinance No. 38 shall be provided by electronic means of communication, incl. through the websites providing access to the platform as listed in Art. 61, Para 2 above.

Art. 63. (1) Under this section, the contracts for the provision of investment services to the client shall be concluded by Avus Capital Ltd. and the clients' orders shall be accepted and executed by the latter through the electronic trading platform. Electronic trading platform (system) under this section shall be an electronic trading system that guarantees compliance with the requirements of Ordinance No 38 and provides the client with access to an order execution place at the websites listed in Art. 62, Para 2 of these General Terms and Conditions.

(2) The client has direct access to the platform (system) through the websites listed above and can enter orders through web, desktop and/or mobile applications that ensure their reliable identification. Upon receiving the order, the person who receives it shall check the client's identity, respectively their proxy's identity. Identity and identification checking is done through the user name (for iTrend.com – email) and password. The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall be allowed to also use additional methods for checking the client/proxy's identity, upon its sole discretion.

(3) The orders submitted by clients through the provided trading platform shall be executed as soon as the market reaches the price specified in the order. The client's order is always executed completely – when the market reaches the price specified in the order, the entire volume of the client's order is executed, i.e. the electronic trading platform does not allow partial order execution. The client's order under this section shall never be combined with other client's orders under any circumstances or conditions or with Avus Capital Ltd.'s own deals. For each of the deals concluded upon a client's order under this Section, Avus Capital Ltd. shall act as a counterparty irrespective of the type of client's order – buy or sell.

(4) The types of orders shall be specified in the contract with the client.

(5) The clients shall be informed that upon each change in the components (stocks) of a given index which reflects the value of the index and the future on this index and this results in a change of the opening price on the next day by over 0.1% (i.e. there is sharp price fluctuation), this difference in the price will be compensated for and its effect will be neutralized by means of its automatic entering in the account of each client who has an open position in the index or the index future. (For instance: in case of a price drop amounting to EUR 20 in the hypothesis of the previous sentence, each client who has an open long position in the index or the index future will be automatically compensated, and the amount of EUR 20 will be added to their account, or vice versa.) This is a measure taken to defend the interests of both the clients and the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY in case of sharp price fluctuations (in the hypothesis of the preceding sentences).

(6) Disputes arising from the execution/non-execution of orders under the present section shall be referred to Avus Capital Ltd.

Art. 64. (1) By virtue of the present section, clients shall be informed and agree that the electronic trading platform is software that may experience technical shortcomings, technical failures or other technical malfunctions related to its functioning, which could lead to delays or failure to execute orders.

(2) Upon the occurrence of a circumstance under the preceding paragraph, the client should immediately contact Avus Capital Ltd. and not undertake any actions on orders placed by them or on open positions before it doing so.

(3) In case of incorrect execution/non-execution of a client's order as a result of a technical malfunction in the platform, Avus Capital Ltd. shall carry out inspection and assessment of the concluded/non-concluded transaction and shall issue its opinion to the client within 3 days via the platform or by other means of communication (email, phone) about whether it considers the transaction final or invalid.

(4) In the case of the preceding paragraphs, Avus Capital Ltd. shall not be liable for damages suffered by the client, provided that the following conditions occur simultaneously (cumulatively): 1. there is damage resulting from the improper functioning of the software of the electronic platform, caused by the wrongful behaviour of an employee of Avus Capital Ltd. or by technical problems that the latter were able to prevent, and 2. the order is executed at a price that differs significantly from the market price. "A price that differs significantly from the market price" under the previous sentence is a price that differs by at least three times the spread for the respective financial instrument from the prices of at least three leading global brokers and banks. In this case, Avus Capital Ltd. takes action to eliminate the error (by reversal, or by refunding the client's account up to the amount of the damage).

(5) The client is informed and agrees that Avus Capital Ltd. shall not be liable for damages suffered by the client if the malfunction in software and in the used means for communication are caused by external factors or they are caused by the intervention of third parties in the software platform or in the means of communication used, respectively in other programs affecting the functioning of the electronic platform. Avus Capital Ltd. shall not be liable for damages suffered by the client if the latter violates or fails to fulfil the technical requirements for using the platform or discloses to third parties their username and password and provides access to the platform. The exemption of liability under the above sentences shall only be limited to the actions of third parties that Avus Capital Ltd. could not prevent.

(6) Avus Capital Ltd. shall be liable if as result of a wrongful behaviour of an employee of the company, a client suffers damages resulting from services provided by the electronic platform, incl. for damages resulting from errors in the texts translated by employees of the company, whereby the responsibility shall be limited to the amount of the damage suffered.

(7) Avus Capital Ltd. shall not be liable for damages suffered by the client, if they result from a technical failure at the ISPs and hosting centres used by the company because these are circumstances beyond the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY's control and it is unable to prevent them.

(8) Avus Capital Ltd. shall not be liable for damages suffered by the client, if they result from: incomplete/inaccurate order placed by the client, disconnection of the client from the Internet or a fault in other communication means used by the client, technical problems in the devices used by the client, or hardware and software problems with the client's computer.

Art. 65. (1) By virtue of the present section, the client shall be informed explicitly that when Avus Capital Ltd. provides information to the client through the electronic trading platform under this section on graphs, current information on the status of an asset or on a market where they trade, on a calendar, news, analyses, training materials (including video trainings), market mood, technical indicators, any such information shall not constitute a recommendation for concluding/not concluding transactions.

(2) Under the present section, the client shall be notified and agrees that the information under Para. 1 has only an informative character and is provided in order to improve the quality of service to the client in view of increasing their awareness, but it cannot be perceived by the client as an investment advice or recommendation. The client shall be aware and shall accept that Avus Capital Ltd. is not responsible, nor can it guarantee the accuracy and completeness of such information and analyses, but simply provides access to them.

Art. 66. (1) By virtue of the present section, clients shall be informed that it is possible for the quotes of certain assets to which they have access through the electronic trading platform to contain errors. Since the quotes provided via the electronic trading platform under this section are formed using quotes from many foreign investment intermediaries and banks, which are obtained through DDE protocol, the errors in quotes may occur due to technical errors or delays in obtaining the necessary information, and this makes the quotes incorrect (wrong). Errors in quotes are established by comparing quotes on the platform with at least three quotes from leading world brokers and banks.

(2) In case an evident factual error is established in a particular quote, under Para. 1, Avus Capital Ltd. may cancel the executed transaction at the corresponding incorrect quote and the consequences related thereto, resulting in profit or loss for the client, no later than 2 days after the transaction has been concluded. If the cancellation is made after the expiry of the term under the previous sentence, Avus Capital Ltd. shall be liable for damages suffered by the client as a result of the cancellation (if such have been caused) and shall be obliged to compensate them up to the amount of the damage suffered.

(3) Avus Capital Ltd. shall be liable (including within the 2-day period envisaged by Para 2) for the damages suffered by the client (if any) to the amount of the damage suffered, as a result of any error in quotes that could have been prevented by due care or was caused by premeditated actions of the employees of Avus Capital Ltd., including when the error was caused by disadvantages of the electronic platform software or by an entered incorrect price as per Para 1.

(4) By virtue of the present section, the client shall be notified and shall agree that Avus Capital Ltd. may not provide quotes at specific times, in case there are temporary technical difficulties with the electronic platform or there are circumstances under which a trade on a given market is not allowed, hence the inability to form a quote. In this case Avus Capital Ltd. shall not be liable for damages suffered by the client.

(5) Under these General Terms and Conditions, the customers shall be preliminarily informed that upon deciding whether the liability under Art. 64, Para 4 and errors under Para 1 of this Article arise in view of whether there is a price that differs significantly from the market price, the Company shall check and compare the quote (price) of the respective financial instrument under Art. 61 traded on the electronic platform to the quotes (prices) of at least three of the following leading brokers/ banks: Saxo Bank, CMC, FXCM, FOREX.COM, GFT, LMAX, and Swissquote.

Art. 67. (1) By virtue of the present section, the client shall be notified and shall agree that it shall maintain an appropriate level of margin specified on the websites that provide access to the electronic trading platform of Avus Capital Ltd.

(2) Under this section, the client shall be aware and shall agree that it is obliged to independently monitor the compliance with the requirements to the margin of the amount and recover it immediately, should it fall below that level.

(3) If despite the requirements set out in the paragraphs hereinabove the client lets a shortage of margin under in this section (the total amount of the client's account falls below the minimum required deposit to the extent required for the instrument), Avus Capital Ltd. shall inform the client immediately about the shortage via the electronic trading platform that provides access to the status of their account and by means of automatic email generation.

(4) In view of the previous paragraphs, the client shall unconditionally agree that as of receiving the information in the preceding paragraph, Avus Capital Ltd. shall close open positions at current market prices without informing it in advance, in order to protect the client from incurring losses in excess of the client's funds deposited in their account. Under this section, the client shall agree to the price levels of the transactions for the positions. The client shall be notified about closed positions immediately via the electronic trading platform that provides access to the status of their account and by means of automatic email generation.

(5) The case under Para. 4 shall take place when the lack of funds exceeds 80% of the margin required, by closing all of the client's open positions simultaneously.

(6) The insufficient margin procedure under Para. 4 and Para. 5 shall be automatically executed by the electronic trading platform, without human intervention and without the possibility of subjective attitude or wrongful behaviour on the part of the company's employees.

(7) The procedure under Para. 4 and Para. 5 shall be carried out in order to protect the client from the accumulation of losses that would be reflected as a negative account balance. Thus, the client shall avoid incurring of additional liabilities larger than the amount of funds in their account with the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY (the risk in trading derivative instruments and contracts for differences is explained in detail in Art. 26 of the General Terms and Conditions).

Section XIII. CONTRACTUAL RELATIONS

Art. 68. (1) Contracts with clients under these General Terms and Conditions shall be concluded for an indefinite period or for a definite term, which shall be specified in the particular contract with the client.

and accepted by the client, the parties' main rights and obligations and the information that the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY is obliged to provide to them.

(3) Any change should be done with the explicit written consent of the parties, given in accordance with Art. 35 of the General Terms and Conditions, and shall enter into effect within a term agreed by the parties.

(4) The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall not conclude the contract under Art. 24, Para 1 of Ordinance No 38 in case any of the hypotheses in Art. 27 thereof is valid.

Art. 69. (1) The conditions and cases of terminating contracts with clients that are not explicitly mentioned in these General Terms and Conditions shall be agreed in the respective contracts.

(2) Upon termination of the contractual relations with the client, the relations shall be settled as follows. The client shall pay all fees and expenses to the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY, if there are such outstanding amounts, and shall specify within a 5-day period, if they have not yet done so, another party's subaccount to which they would like to have the financial instruments transferred, respectively a bank account to which the funds should be transferred, if such are kept by the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY. The INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall transfer the client's financial instruments to a depository institution in accordance with its rules, to another person's subaccount, and shall transfer the client's funds, if any, provided that the client has specified in advance or upon the contract termination in the preceding sentence another person's subaccount or a bank account. The transfer shall be executed within 10 working days from the contract's termination if the other person's bank account details are specified in advance, or upon the expiry of the 5-day period after the contract termination, by virtue of which the client was required to indicate the other person's bank account. If the client does not specify another person's account to which financial instruments can be transferred in advance or upon the termination of the contract, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall transfer the client's financial instruments to a depository institution in accordance with its rules at the client's expense, including by opening a new account. If the client fails to specify in advance, upon the contract's termination or within 5 days after it a bank account to which the funds, if any, kept by the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall be transferred, they shall be transferred to the client's personal account opened for that purpose at a bank institution selected by the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY and licensed by the BNB under the effective legislation. The transfer under the preceding two sentences shall be executed within 10 working days from the termination of the contract, respectively 10 working days of the end of the 5-day period from the contract termination, within which the client was required to indicate their bank account. After the termination of the contractual relations, the INVESTMENT INTERMEDIARY shall not accept and execute orders under the terminated contract.
